MARION VETERAN WINS HARD 45-YEAR BATTLE

WAS FORCED TO RETIRE FROM BUSINESS LIFE.

He Tried Many Ways, at Great Cost, to End Troubles—Tells Interesting Story.

Perhaps because of the hardships he was forced to endure when the South was being devastated by the events of the War Between the States, J. E. Middleton of Marion, now a retired merchant and one of the veterans of that conflict, began forty-five years ago to suffer intensely with stomach trouble. Try as he would, he found himself unable to relieve this condition, which he finally came to look upon as a Nemesis. Hundreds of dollars he spent in direct attempts to combat this trouble, and hundreds, perhaps thousands of dollars he indirectly lost because of impaired health and decreased efficiency.

But, after his trouble had forced him to retire from business perhaps years earlier than he would had he been normally healthy, he found in Tanlac, the master medicine, he says, just what he needed to relieve his ailment, though it had steadily strengthened its hold upon him during the forty-five years of his suffering.

Mr. Middleton is a well known and highly respected citizen of Marion. He voluntarily came to Dr. W. L. Harrelson, manager of the Harrelson Drug Co., Marion, and gave the following remarkable endorsement of the master medicine, Tanlac.

Tanlac has done something for Mr. Middleton dozens of other medicines failed to do, and he emphatically says so. "I can not say too much for your medicine, Tanlac," said the veteran. That statement should settle many doubts. He is in position to know, and he, like all other substantial citizens, does not recommend a medicine unless he is sure of its value. His statement follows:

"I suffered from stomach trouble for forty-five years and I have spent hundreds of dollars for medicines, but none brought me relief. Finally, after years of suffering with ill health that probably was directly brought on by indigestion, I tried Tanlac and it worked wonders for me.

"My trouble became so bad that I was unable to retain anything on my stomach. I had no appetite and could not eat. My sleep was broken and unrefreshing. My system became generally run down. When my trouble was growing worse, I was a merchant in Marion, but, as a consequence of my physical ills, I was forced to stop merchandising and live a quiet life. Before I took Tanlac, I would have fantastic dreams at night, but, thanks to Tanlac, I now sleep soundly and I never know what it is to have a dream.

"You can imagine how dreary the prospect was for me, and I was well along in years. It was a happy day for me when I saw the advertisement of Tanlac. I bought a bottle, and I obtained relief from the very first dose. I have taken six bottles, and expect to continue taking it, for I believe it is the medicine for me.

"I can heartily endorse Tanlac and recommend it. I know what it will do, and I think everybody who suffers with stomach trouble should know about this wonderful medicine."

Tanlac, the master medicine, is sold exclusively by Gilder & Weeks, Newberry; Prosperity Drug Co., Prosperity; Little Mountain Drug Co., Little Mountain; Dr. W. O. Holloway, Chapells; Whitmire Pharmacy, Whitmire; Livingston, Silverstreet. Price $1 per bottle straight. adv.

SIGN AGREEMENT TO YIELD ARMS

Austria-Hungary Tells of Success in Balkans and in Italian Theater.

Berlin, Jan. 26 (by wireless to Sayville).—The delegates of the Montenegrin government at 6 o'clock yesterday signed articles providing for the laying down of the arms of the Montenegrin forces, according to an announcement made today by the Austro-Hungarian headquarters.

Austro-Hungarian troops, the statement adds, occupied portions of the Italian positions near Oslavia and took prisoner 1,197 soldiers, including 45 officers.

The text of the statement follows: "Yesterday at 6 p. m. the delegates of the Montenegrin government signed articles regarding the laying down of the arms of the Montenegrin army. The disarming is going on without difficulty and has extended to the districts of Kolasin and Anrijevica.

"Italian front: Austro-Hungarian troops in a battle near Oslavia occupied part of the enemy's positions taking prisoner 1,197 soldiers, including 45 officers. Two machine guns also were captured.

"At other places on the Isonzo front there was increased activity. Italian attacks near Podora, Monte San Michele and our positions east of Montalame were repulsed.

"Austro-Hungarian aircraft dropped bombs on the enemy's quarters and sheds at Boergo and Ala."

The February Woman's Home Companion not only has splendid fiction by well-known writers, but excellent, special articles and features.

Among the short story contributors are Mary E. Wilkins Freeman, Mary Heaton Orne and Sophie Kerr. They present a lively and attractive group of stories. The two big serials "The Rising Tide" and "Chloe Malone" are continued by Margaret Deland and Fannie Healslip Lea. "The Geranium Lady" is concluded by Sylvania Chatfield Bates.

"The Housework Boycott," by Ida Tarbell, written after thorough investigation, shows why girls do not want to enter domestic service and how to get contented and good servants. In "The Man Across the Aisle" Emily Barton Reid describes the peculiar dangers that girls are subject to when traveling alone, pointing out that 50,000 girls disappear annually in the United States. An original article on Russia, from a new angle, is contributed by Laura Spencer Porter. Alice Farnham Leader, M. D., gives some valuable instruction by which business women can preserve their health.

A new department, "The Woman Motorist," is begun by C. H. Claudy, the automobile expert. It takes up problems that most women have to deal with in running a car, and is designed to help women drivers. In the picture section are many interesting pages, notably those on "The Most Wonderful Dancers in the World," "Skating as the Newest Fad" and "Real Homes Worth Copying." The regular departments on handicraft, cooking, better babies, women's clubs, motion pictures, entertainment and many other subjects are filled with valuable suggestions. Fashions are discussed by Grace Margaret Gould. This number of the Woman's Home Companion is interesting, well rounded and fully up to its usual high standard.

COURT CLEARS PATH RAISING INCOME TAX

DECIDES UNDERWOOD-SIMMONS LAW VALID.

Ruling of Highest Tribunal Will Enable Country to Draw More Heavily on Fortunes of Very Rich.

Washington, Jan. 24.—(The income tax was declared constitutional today by the supreme court in a unanimous decision which swept aside every contention raised against it and, in the opinion of congressional leaders, opened the way for increasing the tax rate on great fortunes to help pay for national defense.

Proposals are pending in congress to tax incomes of more than $1,000,000 as high as 50 per cent. Leaders on all sides agree that out of the impetus which the decision today will give such proposals is likely to come a definite movement to levy on the revenues from great private fortunes for some of the millions the government must raise to carry out the army and navy increases.

"The supreme court's decision has absolutely unfettered the income tax as a source of revenue," said Representative Hull of Tennessee, author of the law. "All doubt is removed and congress left much freer to act. I believe congress will take advantage of the opportunity to amend the law materially. Without any unusual or unjust changes it can be made to yield $185,000,000 to $195,000,000 a year, as against $85,000,000 or $90,000,000 at present."

To Increase Taxes.

Representative Hull is preparing amendments to carry the tax to incomes below $3,000 and make graded increases in surtaxes on incomes exceeding $20,000 a year.

So far, the problem of raising the revenue for national defense, although approached from many angles has not been carried toward any definite solution because with the constitutionality of the income tax undecided administration leaders were reluctant to place too much dependence on it.

In its decision the supreme court construed for the first time the 16th amendment to the constitution, under which the tax is levied, and gave it the broadest interpretation possible.

The decision was announced by Chief Justice White. It was rendered in the appeal of Frank R. Brushaber from the action of the New York federal court in refusing to enjoin the Southern Pacific, of which Brushaber was a stockholder, from paying the tax. The case raised substantially every point involved in all the five income tax cases before the court with the exception of the effect of the provision allowing mining corporations to make a 5 per cent deduction annually from gross income for depletion of mines. This provision is regarded as being an amendment to the old corporation tax.

Within the Law.

The basic error of those who attacked the constitutionality of the tax, Chief Justice White held, was in regarding the 16th amendment as empowering the United States to levy a direct tax without apportionment among the states according to population. In substance the court held that the 16th amendment had not empowered the federal government to levy a new tax, but that "the whole purpose of the amendment was to relieve all income taxes from a consideration of the source whence the income was derived."

Those opposing the tax had urged that the 16th amendment provided that income from "whatever source derived" should be taxed without regard to the apportionment among the states. They argued that the Underwood-Simmons income tax provision by reason of exemptions of certain incomes from taxation had not come within the meaning of the amendment.

Chief Justice White said the power of the federal government to levy an income tax had never been questioned. Quoting at length from the famous income tax decisions of 1895, he declared that the court then recognized the fact that "taxation on income was in the nature of an excise entitled to be enforced as such unless and until it was concluded that to enforce it would amount to accomplishing the result which the requirement as to the apportionment of direct taxation was adopted to prevent, in which case the need would arise to disregard the form and consider the substance alone and hence subject the tax to regulation as to apportionment which otherwise as an excise would not apply to it."

To Avoid Trouble.

The court then decided, he added, that the effect of the tax on the income from real estate was the same as if a direct tax had been levied on the real estate and that it was with a view of obviating such questions that the amendment had been adopted.

Inasmuch as the amendment had not conferred the power to levy an income tax, said the chief justice, it could not be interpreted as embracing limitations as to the nature and character of income to be taxed. To consider it as embracing limitations, such as not authorizing a progressive tax, he related, was irreconcilable with the purpose of the amendment. He explained that the uniformity of excise taxes required by the constitution was geographical uniformity of application as to classes.

The chief justice further held that the tax did not violate the "due process" provision of the constitution by imposing a higher rate of taxation on incomes above $20,000 than on those below that figure or by other provisions.

POLITICAL ASPECTS OF WAR STAND OUT

Come to the Front as Most Important
Developments as Fighting
Dwindles.

Hostilities on all fronts having for the moment dwindled to rather unimportant proportions, the political side of the war has again assumed the chief role of interest. The British parliament is discussing with much animation what steps shall be taken to make more rigid the government's plan of keeping goods of all sorts imported or exported, out of Germany; British labor has decided by an overwhelming majority to support the government to the full in the prosecution of the war; the German ambassador at Washington has presented to the American government a draft note concerning the sinking of the steamer Lusitania which is believed to meet all the American demands on this troublesome issue, and which, if accepted by the German government, will finally end the controversy.

In addition Great Britain has answered tentatively the American protest against the holding up of mails, but will reply more fully to the representations when France has signified her approval of Great Britain's attitude.

Simultaneously comes the announcement that in the future French warships will aid the British navy in blockading the English channel and the North sea and take part in the examination of mails as well as cargoes.

Hand to hand fighting between French and Germans near Deuville took place when the French tried to retake trenches captured from them by the Germans. Berlin reports that all the attacks were repulsed. The French, however, have taken from the Germans mine craters they had occupied several days ago and in mining operations in the Argonne forest have destroyed German trenches.

On the Austro-Italian front Italian positions near Oslavia have been captured by the Austrians who made prisoners of 45 officers and 1,197 men, according to Vienna.

The Turks claim that another attack by the British near Menlarie, east of Kut-el-Amara, was discontinued after the British had suffered "appalling losses."

The Austrian drive down the eastern coast of the Adriatic, having passed beyond the Montenegrin border, is said to have resulted in the capture of an Albanian seaport, San Giovanni di Medua. Rome advises indicate that the Italian government is concerned at the extension of Austrian influence southward along the Adriatic, but there are no indications that further measures to oppose the Teutonic forces are under way. It is said no alarm is felt in Rome for Avlona, which has been occupied by Italian troops, or for Durazzo, in the hands of Essad Pasha, provisional president of Albania, who has cast his lot with the entente allies.

An unofficial dispatch says that Bulgarians invading Albania have come in contact with and met defeat at the hands of Albanian troops led by Essad Pasha.

The representatives of the Montenegrin government, according to a Vienna dispatch coming by way of Berlin, at last have signed articles regarding the disarmament of the Montenegrin army and the Montenegrins are everywhere laying down their arms.

The British house of lords has passed the third reading of the military service bill.

Neither landowner nor renter can prosper on poor land; both can prosper on rich land. And of all the "inventions ever devised by the wit of man" for making rich land poor and keeping it poor and for making both landlord and renter poor at the same time, nothing has ever been devised equal to the one-year renting system. And the South is probably the only part of the civilized world in which such a system still obtains.—The Progressive Farmer.
